Make a quick getaway

If you're a UK driver, you must bring a DVLA access code, which you can generate now from the DVLA's online system and save yourself time at the counter.

Remember to Bring

- A copy of the confirmation email and a valid credit or debit card to leave an imprint for any additional costs.
- UK drivers should bring a valid driving licence (original copies only) and two further forms of identification, one of which must include proof of address. This can be two bills or one bill and another form of photographic identification, preferably a passport. Acceptable documents include utility bills and bank or credit card statements issued within the last three months.
- All UK drivers should also bring their access code from the DVLA, which you can acquire from the DVLA's online (Share Driving Licence) system.
- EU Licence holders not residing in the UK must bring a domestic driving licence and either a passport or ID card.
- EU Licence holders who are residents in the UK must bring with them a domestic licence, passport or ID card and proof of UK address. This can be two bills or one bill and another form of photographic identification, preferably a passport. We also accept utility bills and bank or credit card statements issued within the last three months.
- Drivers from outside the EU must possess a valid domestic driving licence with an English translation. If the English translation is not available, an international driving permit is required in addition to a domestic driving licence. A passport must also accompany a domestic driving licence.
- Any additional drivers added to the booking must also provide a valid driving licence.
- Are you planning on taking your vehicle outside of the UK? Please note that European rentals are restricted to cars only, with prior arrangement. Vans must not be taken outside the UK mainland. Ensure you have read our full Terms of Hire before planning to take the vehicle outside the UK.
